

Note: This is a promotional email for a fictional subscription product aimed at healthcare providers.

Headline: You've helped so many patients. Now let us help you.

Body:

[Recipient name],

We know it's tough when you have to give patients a scary diagnosis, but what about when you're the one facing treatment? How do you tell your loved ones and where do you go for support?

Who heals the healer?

You've helped so many people live longer, healthier lives. Now we'd like to offer you the same support.

[image]

That's why our Wounded Healer webinar and care package subscription is completely free for healthcare providers and medical students who have been newly diagnosed with cancer or other serious illnesses.

Each month you'll receive:

- A gentle, supportive webinar to guide you through the hardest parts of living with illness as a healthcare provider. There's no pressure to attend live; watch the recording when you can.
- A care package from us, with soothing products and encouraging gifts curated and approved by fellow providers who have been where you are.
- Four free virtual support meetings where you can connect with others who know what you're going through.

[Button text: Get the support you deserve.]

We're so glad you're here,

Team at Wounded Healer

Received this email by mistake? Don't worry. You can [\[link text: unsubscribe\]](#) at any time.